

Education

IDSMS - Educating the Workforce

The education profession is noble and increasingly crucial, particularly with the climate of uncertainty in today's global marketplace. The education industry, like all others, has undergone an evolution, having to adapt to new technologies and facing the challenges of the modern world.

The International DSM Group recognizes these challenges and thus, has introduced an extraordinary array of products and solutions to help both students and educators stay relevant.

Education with IDSMS

The modern classroom, where it has not gone virtual, has evolved and transformed into something quite significantly distinct from the traditional lecture halls. Chalk boards and white boards have been replaced by projector screens, as students take notes in and carry around laptops instead of notebooks. Even the term notebook has come to define an electronic gadget rather than leather bound paper.

IDSMS offers the solutions that help integrate modern technology into education, and prevent it from becoming an obstacle to educating the workforce of tomorrow. Most importantly however, we focus on helping the educators, providing them with education in addition to the tools with which to educate.

- IDSMS has extensive experience with a host of industry practices that have been tried and tested over and over again, and proven to be true each time.
- We combine this experience with everything that is new and revolutionary in the media creation industry in order to develop the most relevant possible tech curriculum for you.
- This curriculum is then used in tandem with continuing education to ensure that neither you, nor your staff, have to suffer from any potential hassles caused by your equipment.
- The team at IDSMS has considerable expertise in color and effects, editing, on set camera acquisition, and sound and delivery, in addition to all the tools used by the best professionals in the industry.
- Furthermore, we follow all additions and innovations to the media creation industry keenly, keeping ourselves up to date with cloud based collaboration, live streaming, and so on.
- Thus, we are consistently aware of all possible tips and each nifty trick that can help us incorporate the latest technologies into your existing infrastructure seamlessly, while ensuring that your personnel can use them with consummate ease.

Here at the International DSM Group, we fully recognize how overwhelming it can be to properly educate the creative force's next generation while attempting simultaneously to stay ahead of the incessantly evolving technology. We offer therefore, a range of solutions and products that further the education of instructors, including best industry practices and cutting edge acquisition gear.

Meta Description: Stay up to date and stay relevant with the latest technology through the innovative education solutions offered by The International DSM Group.

SAMPLE